

Crossbar.io Fabric Center Terms of Service

1. Introduction

This Agreement covers the access of Users to the Crossbar.io Fabric Center service ("Service"). This service is under development and access is intended for testing purposes. No guarantees are made regarding any particular functionality of the service, its stability or accessibility.

2. Definitions

User – A natural person who has entered into the Agreement or where the company or other legal entity in whose employ or under whose direction the natural person accesses the Service has entered into the Agreement and warrants that this natural person respects the terms of the Agreement.

3. Access to the Service

Access to the Service is granted to all Users.

3.1. API License

A license to use the Crossbar.io Fabric Center API is hereby granted to all Users. This license covers access both via software provided by Crossbar.io for such purpose and User's own software for programmatic access.

3.2. Usage Limits and Exclusions

The Service may only be used for testing, not in production deployments. No usage limits apply regarding the number of Crossbar.io Fabric instances or other software which User connects to the Service, or the amount of usage.

3.2.1. No High-Risk Applications

The Service is not designed for use in environments in which completely fail-safe performance is required and in which the failure of the Service could lead to death, personal injury or severe physical and environmental damage ("High Risk Use"). Examples of such High Risk Use include the operation of aircraft, nuclear or chemical facilities, direct life support or weapons systems.

You agree not to use or license the use of the Service in connection with any High Risk Uses and will inform any end users of the foregoing restriction. CROSSBAR.IO IS NOT LIABLE FOR ANY DAMAGES CAUSED BY USE OF THE SERVICE IN HIGH RISK ACTIVITIES.

3.2.2. Legal Limitations Apply

While Crossbar.io does not impose any limitations regarding applications beyond those found in Section 3.1.1, legal limitations for any country in which Crossbar.io operates the Service apply.

3.2.3. Termination of Access

Access to the Service is terminated when the Agreement granting the User access ends.

Additionally, access may be terminated if the User violates the terms of this Agreement.

In addition, access to the Service may be terminated if the User accesses the Service in a way which disrupts the Service or reduces accessibility for other Users, especially if this is done intentionally, if User's usage of the service violates applicable laws, and in case of other user actions which have a substantial negative effect on the Service or on Crossbar.io's business operations.

Rightful termination by Crossbar.io of access to the Service also allows Crossbar.io to end the Agreement based on which access to the Service is granted.

4. Limited Warranty

The Service is under development, and access is granted for testing purposes only.

Crossbar.io does not warrant any specific functionality of the Service.

Crossbar.io does not warrant uninterrupted or error-free operation of the Service, or that Crossbar.io will correct all Service defects. The User is responsible for the results obtained from the use of the Service.